Hi, Pauline!
How are you getting on? Have you decided where to go on holiday? If I were you, I'd book that package tour in Turkey. It sounds good.

Sadly, our holiday in China is about to finish. The flight to London is on Tuesday ( $15^{\text {th }}$ ) and we'll be home at around 12.15 p.m. We've been in China for 3 weeks and I must say Jim and I have fallen in love with this country! It seems Dad is not as delighted as we are but probably it's because he doesn't know Chinese - he says it's a big barrier. For me everything is perfect here - the hotel (though it's a very long way from the town centre), the people, the food

We have visited quite a few interesting places in China. I'm sending you a photo of Qianmen - an amazing tourist attraction and important geographical and historical marker of old Beijing. We go sightseeing every other day and come back on our last legs! But the impressions we get are really worth it!

Well, I must finish - Jim and Dad are waiting for me in the hotel lounge. We're going to one of the restaurants in the neighbourhood to watch a beautiful tea ceremony
P.S. Jim's been eating with chopsticks since we arrived and he's made progress! But tell Mum we do not experiment with the food so she needn't worry.

Love,
Tina
